ATEM connects, supports and challenges individuals and institutions to recognise and advance the professionalism of tertiary education management in Australia, New Zealand and PNG.

ATEM is the association of first choice for tertiary education managers, recognised for the quality of its programs and resources, for over 40 years.

OUR MEMBERS

Our key stakeholders are our individual members, tertiary education institutions and the sector, across the entire Australasian region.

We work collaboratively across the sector, with governments and other professional associations.

HOW WE DO IT

ATEM connects people across institutions and disciplines, supports them to develop their management skills and knowledge, and challenges the sector to recognise the professional nature of tertiary education management.

We do this by:

- Growing careers: growing the careers of professional administrators and managers to enable them to have rewarding careers and contribute beyond their jobs to the broader sector.
- Building professionalism: building professionalism for the sector through relevant education and training, and recognising outstanding achievements in the sector.
- Investigating hot topics: providing opportunities to explore and discuss the implications of today’s government policy and other changes in the sector.
- Connecting people and groups: connecting people and groups across the sector to promote sharing of programs, knowledge and practice.
- Understanding the sector: providing programs and resources for individuals and groups to better understand the tertiary education sector.

MEMBER TESTIMONIAL

Georgina Barratt (MATEM)

“About 15 years ago, my boss handed me a flyer and said ‘You should join ATEM.’”

Fast forward 15 years. I completed my degree, went straight into a Masters in Educational Leadership (where I topped my course), and then a Cert IV in training, via a scholarship from UNSW.

I started coordinating the mentoring programs at UNSW, helped to set up the Back on Track program, and joined UTS, where I have now managed over 550 student leaders in the past 8 years, in the UTS Peer Assisted Study Success (U:PASS) program.

ATEM has been there along the way – providing the opportunity to attend a 3 day workshop at UNE where I learnt about the Higher Education sector, providing a scholarship to attend an ATEM conference one year, attending a number of useful professional development courses, and just in general being part of a group of managers in tertiary education.”
