

Association for Tertiary Education Management

connecting your career with people and practice

ATEM membership

connecting your career with people and practice

The Association for Tertiary Education Management (ATEM) is the pre-eminent professional body in Australasia for tertiary education managers and administrators representing individual and corporate members across the senior management sector, for over 40 years.

Our vision is to advance excellence in tertiary education management.

Our members are found across the breadth of the academic environment, including at universities, TAFEs, polytechnics and wanangas, private providers, and government departments.

WHAT WE DO

ATEM connects, supports and challenges individuals and institutions to recognise and advance the professionalism of tertiary education management in Australasia.

We are renowned for our highly relevant events and professional development programs.

ATEM provides an opportunity for you to stake your claim in the industry, to provide input into key sector-wide issues, and to engage with leaders and decision makers in tertiary education management.

Tertiary education administration and management is a specialised and developing profession within academic institutions, requiring a commitment to lifelong learning and continuous professional development, and to the highest standards of professional practice.

ATEM

- The only professional association dedicated to the tertiary education management sector in Australasia.
- Provides professional development for its members and the tertiary education sector since 1976.
- Raises the profile of tertiary education administration and management as a professional career.
- Works with individual and corporate members across Australia, New Zealand and internationally to build professional skills, knowledge and behaviours.
- Uniquely positioned to connect individuals and groups (who might not otherwise interact with one another).
- Brings like minds together.
- Professional and collaborative.

Join us

Membership of ATEM provides many opportunities to build your career and contribute to professionalising tertiary education management.

These include:

- Targeted career and professional skill development programs, conferences and special events.
- Networking with leading tertiary education administrators and managers in Australia, New Zealand and PNG.
- Regular weekend updates with news of current happenings and publications.
- The Journal of Higher Education Policy and Management, published jointly by ATEM and the LH Martin Institute for Higher Education Leadership and Management, sent to you six times a year and now available online.
- The annual Tertiary Education Management Conference (TEMC) where you will hear the brightest minds in the sector share insights with you.
- Access to study scholarships and travel grants.
- Emerging Leaders and Managers Program (eLamp) - online and free to members.
- Discounted rates on professional development programs and conferences.
- Recognition of your expertise through the ATEM Best Practice Awards.

Join online now at www.atem.org.au

Membership & more info
E: www.atem.org.au
T: 61 2 9351 9456

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

In 2016, I was privileged to be President of ATEM while it celebrated 40 years of providing service to the tertiary education management sector.

In every industry, engaged professionals who are serious about their careers join their association. Over 40 years, many hundreds of careers have been enhanced by networking through ATEM.

In the three countries where we are represented, Australia, New Zealand and PNG, the sector has benefited from its training of managers and staff in a very wide range of topics and always with the sector in mind. ATEM works in partnership with other associations to bring the best expertise to tertiary education management.

ATEM is endorsed by tertiary institutions across the three countries who are corporate members. This is very important to the professionals working in the tertiary education management.

I encourage you to join ATEM as a boost to your career and encourage you to ensure your organisation is active and engaged with its professional association.

Mr Carl Rallings

President, Association for Tertiary Education Management (ATEM)

Deputy Vice-Chancellor (Students & Communities), University of Southern Queensland